

Thought for the Week

For many people in first-century Palestine, shepherds were despised and regarded with suspicion. Just as some groups today on the margins of society are feared because they are all cast as thieves or hooligans or drunks, so first-century shepherds were considered to be on the margins of society. Some hired hands deliberately allowed their sheep to graze on other people's land and stole wool, milk and lambs from the flock, so all shepherds tended to be cast as villains.

Jesus takes the image to its extremes by describing how hired hands flee at the first sign of trouble. By contrast, he himself is prepared to lay down his life in order to save the sheep. He makes it very clear that he chooses this course of action. His death is not the result of unfortunate circumstances which sweep him along without his will, but is a deliberate decision by Jesus.

Why did he choose to die? Would it not have been better to avoid death at such an early stage in his career and to go on teaching and preaching and healing for many more years?

Jesus explains that he lays down his life in order to take it up again. And with the benefit of hindsight, we know that his new life after death was radiant and amazing. But how does that save human beings? It does, of course, mean that we can look forward to a radiant new life after death, but perhaps it means more than that. Perhaps Jesus is saying that if we love and trust God enough to give up our status and power and wealth, however lowly that might be, in order to face trouble and conflict rather than evade it, we will discover an amazing new quality of life right now.

Praying as a Benefice

Please use the following text and prayer in quiet time; the text is from this Sunday's readings and the prayer is from Bishop Jonathan. Please pray either at noon or 5.55 pm (or both) every day.

This week's Bible Text

I am the good shepherd. I know my own and my own know me, just as the Father knows me and I know the Father. And I lay down my life for the sheep. (John 10: 14-15)

The Prayer

Glorious God,
You have taken hold of us and made us Your own. In the power of Your Spirit give us grace to press on in Your purposes, loving one another, learning together and living the mission of Him who calls us onwards, Jesus Christ our Lord.
Amen.

Today's Readings

Genesis 7:1-5, 11-18; 8:6-18; 9:8-13

GNB OT 9

God's act of destruction is also an act of recreation, through the faithfulness of Noah.

Acts 4:5-12

GNB NT 147

When Peter and John appear before the religious elite, Peter is filled with the Holy Spirit and preaches about the salvation gained for all by Jesus, crucified by the rulers.

John 10:11-18

GNB NT 126

Jesus chooses to lay down his life for human beings, just as a good shepherd is willing to lay down his life for the sheep for whom he is responsible.
